Aluminum profile with opal iris is a great way to provide an additional source of light in any interior. It is made of high quality products, durable and hassle-free assembly. It can be fastened to different surfaces with screws or other fasteners that can be perfectly adapted to a particular profile. The aluminum profile is flexible and also available in various sizes, which can be adapted to individual needs and to a specific surface. Aluminum profiles can be ordered in any size - they will be delivered properly trimmed and ready for assembly. The milky cover gives a delicate, filtered light that not only brightens selected surfaces, but also properly shapes the mood in the interior.

The modern and excellent aluminum profile is a great addition to the traditional light source. Profiles can be mounted vertically or horizontally, perfectly illuminate difficult surfaces, niches or cornices. They are also ideally suited to the attic, where it is difficult to choose traditional light sources. Functional and durable profiles can also be used outdoors. They have excellent technical parameters, they work faultlessly regardless of the weather. Profiles can be easily combined and combined with other elements of a modern lighting system based on led technology. Due to high-quality products, each interior will be illuminated in accordance with our individual needs.

The price is a milky veil, making the color of the light is less blatant and such a haze of color creates a unique atmosphere.
